

Grand Nationals Brings Mike Gibson On Board.

The Parma Rod & Gun Club is excited to announce that Mike Gibson, of MGM Targets, is joining the staff of the Man on Man Grand Nationals. MGM Targets is the title sponsor of the match and will be donating the steel to make the match happen. Mike has been involved in getting the match off the ground since the beginning and is excited to see such a great event come back to the shooting sports.

Mike will join the staff as the Assistant Match Director and will perform several duties. His goals are to make the match as successful as possible, ensure the shooters have a great time, and get the sponsors great value for their contributions. Mike attended the Shoot offs in Colorado for over 10 years and truly loved the time there. It was on the family vacation calendar every year while the match was run in Colorado.

Mike's desire for this match is to make it better each year. "Every match in the country can be better than it was the previous year. Paul Miller did a great job of setting the bar high, so we have our hands full trying to best that!", Gibson stated. The Grand Nationals will be a weeklong event that shooters of all skill levels are invited to participate in. Many of the original Handgunner stages will be here, but there are at least 4 stages that will have DRAMATIC differences in them. One stage will take 13 rounds, if you shoot it clean. Mike would love to see families attend and participate in all types of events and activities. The match will be held in Parma, ID at the Parma Rod and Gun Club. The Sponsors Shoot Off will take place July 24-26 and the match will take place on July 27-31.

The MGM Grand Nationals has been modeled after the most famous and successful annual Man on Man shooting competition in U.S. History, the American Handgunner/STI World Shoot off. Originally founded by Paul Miller at the San Juan Range in Montrose, CO, the Handgunner set the bar by which all future matches will be measured. With the expanded shooting dates, a significant number of cash payback side matches, and some exciting new stages, the Grand Nats may very well exceed expectations of past Handgunner competitors.

Registration is open at www.mgmtargets-grandnats.com where shooters can enter the main event and also the sponsor's challenge.
